

This boy was in the custody of the police for over a month until social welfare took him to Chilenje Transient Home. He may be more or less than 8 years old.

It is very difficult to establish Zulu's background because he does not reveal anything about himself and most of what he says is uncoordinated. Sometimes he claims to have lived alone and at times says he was living with his father.

The child's activities are usually uncoordinated and it is suspected he may have a psychological problem. As a result, it has become a double problem to trace where he came from. He loves to play but does not catch up with things easily.

Zulu was transferred to Lifenet through the social welfare on the 12/10/2005. He stayed at an adoption center for two months before he was finally relocated to

NAME: DANIEL JONDA ZULU Lifenet.

AGE: 8 YEARS OLD

D.O.B: 9/09/1998

Seeing the state in which his behaviour was, we sought help from the social welfare to see if the boy could be transferred to a specialized institution where he would be handled accordingly. This, however, proved futile as the social welfare office could not find such a place for him. He has been staying at Lifenet for about three months now.

He is hyperactive and most of the time running about. Most of time he plays alone. When you are with him in a group, he quickly finds it easy to sneak and start playing alone.

Zulu is a very friendly boy who is always talking. Since he joined Lifenet, changes in his behaviour have been observed. He can now talk and report things lucidly.

The adoption centre where he was and Child Care gave him a new first name called Jonda. At Lifenet, we also gave him Daniel as his other name and adopted the 9th of September, 1998 as his birthday.

Daniel's perceived temperament is sanguine. Positive tendencies that best describe his temperament are: warm, extroverted, out-going, friendly, open and flexible.

On the other hand Negative tendencies that best describe his temperament are: restless, weak-willed and emotionally unstable.
