engage in activities that would keep him busy, like wondering in the nearby gardens to look for pieces of work for his survival. This in the long run caused Elias to stop school.

His mother is now blind and the causes of her blindness are not well known.

Elias came to Lifenet on March 29, 2004. He was then enrolled at Ng'ombe Basic School in grade three. His academic performance was not up to average the first term of school. He was too playful and wanted to be missing school on any given school day, until it was pointed out to him how necessary education was to his wellbeing in life.

Since then, his grades have been improving. In the first term of last year, he was number 23 in class performance. Last term he was number ten and passed most of the subjects except for environmental science which he finds a bit challenging.
